

Chief Minister Sindh,

We understand that you are a graduate of the Stanford University and well understand how computers may be used to improve efficiency of organisations.

It was therefore refreshing to see that you have placed the email addresses of 55 government departments on the website of the Sindh Government.

I have tried contacting them 7 times in the last one year. The total number of responses received were zero.

You may therefore like to look into this issue as none of these 55 email addresses seem to have a recipient at the other end. Or is that just one more category of "Ghost Employees Inc.".
